Here we set out more detail of our gender pay gap and bonus pay gap along with the number of male and female colleagues in each quartile of our pay ranges. Then we explain what we think the reasons are for the differences.

By law, we are required to publish data regarding our mean and median gender pay gap information.

Our mean gender pay gap is

-7.1%

The mean is our average pay. This is calculated by adding up all our salaries and dividing by the number of colleagues.

Average Hourly Rate for a Female is £20.10

Average Hourly Rate for a Male is

£18.80

Women's mean hourly rate is 7.1% higher than men's. In other words, when comparing mean hourly rates, women earn £1.07p for every £1 that men earn.

As can be seen from the Pay Quartile distribution (given below) there has been an increase in the number of females earning an hourly rate in the upper half of our pay bands.

Our median gender pay gap is

5.3%

The median is the middle value in our pay. This value is calculated by organising all of our salaries in order and picking the middle number.

Median Hourly Rate for a Female is £16.12

Median Hourly Rate for a
Male is

£17.02

Women's median hourly rate is 5.3% lower than men's. In other words, when comparing median hourly rates, women earn £0.95p for every £1 that men earn.

By identifying the wage of the middle earner, the median is the best representation of the 'typical' difference as it is unaffected by the small number of very high earners.
